HAMILTON AND GORE
MECHANICS' INSTITUTE,

ESTABLISHED 1839.

- I. THIS Society shall be called the HAMILTON AND GORE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.
- II. The object to be the diffusion of scientific and literary knowledge by a Library of reference and circulation ; by the formation of a Museum of Specimens in Zoology, Geology, or other subjects of nature, science, or manufactures ; by classes ; by conversations ; or any other method the Committee may judge necessary.
- III. That it shall consist of a President, two Vice Presidents, Secretary, Treasurer and twelve Committeemen, and an indefinite number of honorary, ordinary and junior members.
- IV. The President and Vice Presidents shall be elected by ballot at the Annual Public Meeting.
- V. The Committee, including the Secretary, Treasurer, and Librarian, together fifteen, shall be elected by ballot. One month before the day of electing the Committee, a paper shall be placed in the rooms of the Institute, on which any member may nominate one other member as a fit and proper person for the office of Committee-man, and shall sign his name to such nomination : if one week previous to the election, the number of nominees do not amount to double the number of the Committee to be elected, the existing Committee shall fill up the list to that number, which list shall be the only candidates allowed, and any ballot from any other shall be rejected by the scrutineers; and all members of the Institute are recommended to come to the Annual Meeting prepared with a list of all those for whom they wish to vote. These lists shall be dropped into the ballot box, and the two scrutineers being appointed, the fifteen whom they find to have the greatest number of votes shall be declared duly elected; and such elected Committee shall at their first meeting choose from their number the Secretary, Treasurer and Librarian. Five of the Committee to form a quorum for the transaction of ordinary business.

- VI. The Institution shall be permanent and its property unalienable, except by the votes of nine-tenths of the whole members present at a General Meeting, specially called for the purpose.
- VII. All discussion on political and religious matters is absolutely prohibited at its meetings.

FUNDS.

- VIII. The entry money for each member shall be Five Shillings—and the annual contribution Ten Shillings, payable quarterly in advance.
- IX. The entry money may be increased by the resolution of an Annual Meeting in proportion to the increased value of the establishment.
- X. The Institute will gratefully receive donations of money, books, apparatus, models, or natural curiosities; which donations, &c., with the names of the Donors, shall be registered in the books of the Society.

OF MEMBERS.

- XI. Any person above eighteen years of age shall be admissible as a member according to the following regulations:
- XII. Persons wishing to become members must give in their names, with a written recommendation, signed by two of the members, to the Secretary, who shall propose them at the first meeting of the Committee. If approved, their names shall be enrolled as members, and on paying the entry money they shall receive a copy of the Rules and Regulations of the Institute, and a ticket of admission to the Library and Lectures, and be entitled to participate in all the privileges resulting from the Institution.

XIII. Members recommended and enrolled, as aforesaid, shall be eligible to fill any office in the Society, and entitled to vote at General Meetings: they shall be admitted to the Lectures, and also be permitted to enroll themselves in any of the classes, and to enjoy the privilege of reading the books in the Library.

XIV. That every member, on entering the meetings of the Institute, must shew his ticket, if required, to the door keeper: and, on applying for books, must shew it to the Librarian.

XV. That any person wishing to introduce a friend to a Lecture must apply to the corresponding Secretary. No person to be allowed admission without a ticket.

XVI. That if any member be found transgressing the laws of his country, the constitution of the Institute, or any of the bye laws, or acting in any manner so as to prove a dishonour to the Institution, he shall, on being found guilty, be expelled by the Committee, but shall have the right of appeal to a General Meeting.

XVII. That persons from 12 to 17 years of age, recommended according to Rule 5th, may be admitted to the privileges of attending lectures, classes, and the use of the library, on paying 2s. 6d. entry money, and 5s. annually; but they cannot be eligible to any office in the Society, nor entitled to a vote at the General Meetings.

XVIII. That every member shall be entitled to transfer his right in the Society; and on the death of any member, his heir shall be admitted to the benefit of his rights, provided such substitute or heir be recommended and chosen in the way prescribed for the admission of members.

XIX. Should any member let his quarterly contribution go in arrears six months, he shall, after being warned by the Secretary, be deprived of the privileges of the Society, until he shall pay his arrears, and enter again as a new member. Should any member have occasion to remove to a distance to follow his occupation, he shall, on his return, be admitted to his privileges by paying up his arrears without entering again.

XX. That any person making a donation to the amount of Ten Pounds, in money, books, apparatus, &c., shall be deemed an honorary member for life ; and if any individual shall be considered by a General Meeting to have benefited the Institution by his discoveries, or otherwise, he may be elected as an honorary member.

THE DUTIES OF THE COMMITTEE.

- XXI. That the Committee shall be chosen from among the members at the Annual General Meeting, in accordance with the constitution of the Society : those members only being eligible for office, and qualified to vote, who shall have fully paid up their annual contribution.
- XXII. That the committee, for the time being, shall have the entire control of all the property of the Institute, and the management of the funds ; and it shall be their duty to select and purchase, at the cheapest rate, such books and apparatus as a majority of them shall direct, to the extent only, however, of the funds actually in the hands of the Treasurer ; to frame regulations for the Library ; to engage Lecturers ; appoint Class Teachers ; and to transact all the business of the Society : but without power to borrow money or contract debts, except by the authority of a General Meeting. They shall meet on the first Wednesday of every month, and more frequently if necessary.
- XXIII. That all questions before the Committee shall be decided by a majority of the votes of those present, except questions involving the character of members, or the decision concerning persons wishing to become members, which shall be decided by ballot, and the decision must be a majority of the whole Committee.
- XXIV. That all sums of money collected by the Secretaries, or any other office bearer, in behalf of the Institution, shall be punctually paid over into the hands of the Treasurer, at the Monthly Meeting, and when not present, from unavoidable causes, shall be carried to him.
- XXV. When the Committee shall deem it necessary to draw upon the Treasurer for any sum, (not exceeding the amount of funds in his hands) it shall be by presenting a draft signed by the Chairman and the Recording Secretary.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENTS.

XXVI. That it shall be the duty of the President to preside at all meetings of the Society, and call Special Meetings at the request of the quorum of the Committee, or of twelve members; and, in the absence of the President, one of the Vice Presidents shall act in all respects as President. The senior to be preferred, if more than one of them be present.

THE DUTIES OF THE TREASURER.

XXVII. That the Treasurer shall take charge of all the sums of money put into his hands, belonging to the Society, keep regular accounts thereof, and honour all the orders of the Committee (to the extent of funds in his hands and no more.) And he shall lay before the Committee at each quarterly Meeting, and the members at each Annual Meeting, an abstract of his receipts and disbursements for the preceding year.

DUTIES OF THE SECRETARY.

XXVIII. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to carry on all the written correspondence of the Society, sign and give out the members tickets, on receiving their entry money, or the first quarter of an annual contribution, and to keep a regular record of the same; and to supply each member, on application, with one free admission ticket to any one of the lectures. He shall also attend all the meetings of the Society and Committee, take regular minutes of the same, announce all meetings, regular or required by the President, and sign all drafts, ordered by the Committee on the Treasurer; and he shall lay before each Annual Meeting a report of the transactions of the Society for the preceding year.

OF THE LIBRARY.

XXIX. That the Library shall comprehend three Divisions, The first shall consist of books of reference, and valuable books of science: none of these to be taken out of the reading room, except by special order of the Committee. The second shall consist of books suited for general reading and adapted for circulation among the members. The third to consist of books adapted to the capacities of the young persons who may join the Society, but who are not of age to enjoy all the privileges of full membership. All the books shall be such as are calculated directly to forward the objects of the Society; and the Committee shall admit no book which may tend directly or indirectly, to immorality of conduct or loose habits of life.

DUTIES OF THE LIBRARIAN.

XXX. It shall be the duty of the Librarian to attend upon the Circulating Library during the hours it is open, and give out books to the members, according to the rules prescribed by the Committee; keep an accurate register of the books so given out, and arrange, alphabetically and numerically, in a catalogue, every book in the Library.

LECTURES.

XXXI. That at every public Lecture, the President, one of the Vice Presidents, or some other member of Committee, shall occupy the chair for the purpose of keeping order.

R U L E S
OF THE Circulating Library, AND NEWS ROOM.

1. The Library and News Room to be open every night (Saturdays and Sundays excepted) from seven o'clock until ten, from the 1st May to the 30th September ; and from half-past six o'clock until half-past nine, during the winter months,

2. The members must produce their tickets, if required, every time they get out or return a book.

3. That no member have more than one volume at a time, except in the case of the plates or key to any subject being in a separate volume.

4. That the time allowed for reading a book, shall be marked on its board or title-page, including the days of delivery and return.

5. That any member retaining a book longer than the appointed time shall pay a fine of one penny for every day the book is detained ; and if kept above seven days, three pence a day ; and if not returned within fourteen days of the appointed time, application shall be made to the member for the same, and if not then returned, the member shall pay the value thereof, or of the set of books to which it belongs ; and in default of such payment he shall cease to be a member of the Institute.

6. That a member lending a book to any person, not a member of the Institute, shall pay a fine of five shillings.

7. That if a book be written in, or otherwise damaged, the member in whose hands the book was at the time, shall pay the amount of damage, the value of the book, or set (if it belong to a set) or replace it by one equally good, according to the judgment of the committee—and he shall not be entitled to any privilege from the Library, till such damage is paid.

8. That all fines shall be paid to the Librarian within one week after being incurred, and in default thereof, the names of members incurring the same shall be exhibited in the Reading Room of the Institution; and they shall cease to be members thereof till payment be made; and all fines to be paid over to the managing Committee at the first meeting thereafter.

9. None of the books marked in the catalogue as books of reference shall be circulated.

10. That a member, on returning a book, may take the same again out of the Library, if no application for it has been previously made.

11. That proper books be kept for entering the books taken out of the Library.

12. No persons allowed to hold any general conversation in the News Room.

13. Any member smoking, or bringing a dog into the News Room or Library will be fined 1s. 3d.

14. No person will be allowed to take away from the News Room any book, periodical, or newspaper, under a penalty of 5s.

15. Any member taking a book from the shelves of the Library, for perusal in the News room, must return the same to the Librarian.

16. All periodicals to remain on the table of the News Room until the next number comes in; and all new books to remain for a certain number of days, which shall be specified on the cover, before going into general circulation.

17. Any member wishing to propose a book, &c. must enter the title and price in the order book: the Committee will determine upon the propriety of admitting the same; and if granted, the proposer will be allowed the first reading, after being on the table the time prescribed for new works.

18. That for the purpose of enabling the Committee to ascertain the state of the Library, and the condition of the books therein, the circulation of the books shall cease for one week, four times in the year; such weeks to commence on the Tuesdays of February, May, August, and November, (i. e. the Tuesdays previous to the Annual and Quarterly General Meetings;) that all books must be returned to the Library on or before the above days, and that any member detaining a book after the appointed days, shall be fined sixpence for every day it is so detained.
